A case for security and flexibility

When a jury in Florida awards a plaintiff $18.3 million for a false light invasion of privacy case against a local newspaper publisher, the impact of today's litigious society on the media industry is clear. The number of lawsuits against the media and the cost of defending them are on the rise — and the threat of large damage awards is real.

At OneBeacon Professional Insurance, we have the expertise to tailor coverages to help protect your media clients from costly litigations such as these. Our team of specialists is available to assist in managing your client's media liability exposures with more than just limits.
